Yanks in Siege Of Cherbourg

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED H. Q., June 19 (AP)—American troops laid siege today to the defenses of Cherbourg, third greatest naval port and arsenal of France, after reinforcing and broadening the assault corridor which had isolated the peninsula.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 Nazi defenders were cut off in the Cherbourg area. Escape appeared impossible. They had two choices — to fight to the death or surrender.

Spearhead of Gen. Bradley's spectacular drive to capture this port was the U. S. Ninth Division. Capture of a French naval base would be an old story for this division, for the Ninth broke through German defenses to take Bizerte in Tunisia, 13 months ago under Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy.

U. S. forces that severed the peninsula were busy widening their break-through path to the Atlantic coast. Even last night the path was seven miles wide.

They were driving the Germans down toward La Haye de Puits into what appeared to be another trap, for one American trans-peninsular spearhead has been within four miles of La Haye for several days.

If this spearhead takes the town, the Germans in that area will be in another pocket—between St. Lo D'Ourville and the Atlantic coast.

A third American column under Bradley's command struck south of Lison to within six miles of St. Lo.

Almost all the advances on the Normandy beachhead reported today by supreme headquarters were on the American side except at Tilly-sur-Seulles, where a British division broke through German defenses in a small breach and was fighting in the streets.

All along the rest of the beachhead front there were brisk small actions as Gen. Montgomery built up his forces for a typical Monty punch backed up by thousands of big guns.

The break-through apparently assured the ultimate possession of Cherbourg, from which the Allies might enlarge and solidify the toehold their military leaders have declared secure against any attack by the Germans.

Dramatic isolation of the strategic peninsula was accomplished early yesterday by U. S. forces, headed by the Ninth Division.

FRANCE—In possession of (1) seven miles of Cherbourg peninsula's western coast after isolating some 30,000 Germans in the push across the strip of land, American forces today passed their drive toward the vital port of Cherbourg. To the south, Allied troops plunged to within six miles of (2) St. Lo. Shaded area is held by Allies.

Robots Bomb Britain 5th Day

By JAMES KING

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—Germany's rocket bomb assaults on southern England continued for the fifth successive day as a number of the fire-spitting robot planes zoomed across the coast just after daybreak.

Intermittent activity was reported over the same area during the night, with some resultant casualties and damage, though the attacks did not seem as heavy as the previous night.

The element of newness attached to Hitler's latest secret weapon was wearing off rapidly, however, and British defenses against these blind bombs were taking shape.

All over southern England large reinforcements of anti-aircraft guns are being moved to special spots in efforts to explode the rocket bombs in the air near the coast.

It now appears the robots are two types. The smaller has a speed of 200 to 230 miles an hour. The other, with larger wing span, travels perhaps 400 miles per hour and has greater explosive power.

Meanwhile, Britons view as comic relief the lurid accounts German propagandists are broadcasting concerning "panic" caused by the rocket bombs in England. London newspapers are giving as much space to wild German propaganda stories of the bombings as they do to British reports.

Robot Planes Given Many Peculiar Names

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's new "secret weapon"—the pilotless plane or rocket bomb—already has more names than Reichsmarshal Goering has medals, and others are being added daily on both sides of the English Channel.

"Buzzbomb" and "Winged Comet" seem to be the catchiest names offered in Britain, although London headline writers have contributed such descriptive titles as "Bumble Bomb," "Flying Bomb," and "Whirley."

"Robot Raider" is a favorite with some who like alliteration, while "P-Plane" also has attained some popularity.

German propaganda broadcasts have come up with some fetching names, such as "Hell Hound," "Hell Dog," "Dynamite Meteor," and "Kivik Rocket." What the latter means is not clear.

Nazi Robot Threat to N. Y.

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—The Nazis have even suggested the new robot bomb weapon might be turned against the United States, one Berlin broadcast saying:

"It is to be regretted that only Southern England has so far been affected by the new pilotless plane. We hope that New York will soon get a taste of the new reprisal weapon as a punishment for deliberate air crimes in Europe and East Asia."

U. S. Heavies Rip Robot Base Area

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 19 (AP)—U. S. heavy bombers 500 to 700 strong hammered Hitler's rocket-bomb launching area at Pas-de-Calais today as more of the pilotless explosives hurtled into England, and other big Allied planes struck heavily at German air bases in Southwest France.

Fighter-bombers, attacking at the rate of one a minute, drove home a three-ply assault in direct support of the invasion forces. One wave pounded trapped German forces on Cherbourg peninsula. Another battered communication routes to the southeast over which the Nazis were trying to reinforce their armored divisions in the Tilly-Caen sector. The third bombed the area north of Paris, disrupting reinforcement lines.

Nazis Kill Priest, 14 Other Hostages

NEW YORK, June 19 (INS)—Quoting a "reliable Swiss source," the British radio said today German authorities in France have executed 15 more hostages, including a Catholic priest.

Invasion Weather

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—The wind rose swiftly in the strait of Dover today and by noon was blowing a gale from the north-northeast, with gusts registering up to 60 miles an hour.

Conditions at sea, especially in mid-channel, were extremely bad as the gale piled the sea into a mass of high, broken waves.

The wind was coming from one of the worst possible quarters for Allied unloading operations on the beaches of Normandy.

Russians Drive To Viipuri Gates

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, June 19 (AP)—Soviet field dispatches declared today the Red army had smashed to the threshold of Viipuri, chief city in southern Finland, after breaking the Mannerheim line in the Mu-Koivisto fortress at the mouth of Viipuri bay.

Farther inland on the Karelian isthmus the Russians were reported to have driven 2½ miles past Mannerheim line and capturing rila sector.

While the Red army's left flank had made the most progess along the Gulf of Finland, dispatches said the right wing on the opposite side of the isthmus now was advancing along Lake Ladoga.

Gen. Govorov's Leningrad forces which launched the offensive nine days ago appeared to have broken the back of the Finnish army and prospects for an early complete victory over Finland seemed bright.

Dispatches disclosed the Katiusha, the Red army's secret gun, was used for the first time in Finland.

The Red Army reached the Mannerheim line Saturday, three days after breaking the Raivola-Yoki line, and breached the old Mannerheim forts yesterday in a single swift rush.

A Pravda dispatch said Soviet army men were "electrified" by their first view of the Mannerheim pillboxes which they had blown up in the Soviet-Finnish war of 1939-1940.

New Finn Government Seen, May Ask Peace

By STEN HEDMAN

STOCKHOLM, June 19 (INS)—Departure of the Finnish minister to Stockholm, Baron George Gripenberg, for Helsinki, lent support today to rumors the Finns may be planning to form a new government—possibly preparatory to suing for peace. He may serve as foreign minister in such a new government. It is expected the Premier would be Juho Pasikivi, with M. Keekonen mentioned as possible interior minister.

U. S. Will Fly Casualties Home

NEW YORK, June 19 (INS)—The Army's Air Transport Command said today invasion casualties from the Normandy battle area would start arriving by plane within a week at eastern airports.

Thousands of wounded will be brought home in 24-hour ocean hops.

They will be carried in fleets of four-motored cargo planes, each outfitted to accommodate 24 casualties and accompanying medical attendants. After landing at coastal air fields, the casualties will be taken to near-by Army hospitals before being flown a few days later to hospitals near their homes.

Allies Step Up Pacific Drive

By Associated Press

The Nimitz-MacArthur team steadily enlarged the breaches today in the 4000-mile Japanese inner defense line stretching from New Guinea through the Kuriles. In the center at Saipan island, soldiers and marines fought to within three miles of Magicienne bay on the east and to the edge of Aslito airfield, most important on the island. In the bay is Saipan's main naval base.

The U. S. troops enlarged their beachhead after two enemy counterthrusts were repulsed. Early Saturday, 13 barges laden with Japanese were destroyed as they attempted an amphibious landing on the American rear.

Guam, 100 miles southward, was heavily shelled by warships Thursday.

Adm. Nimitz also announced four Kurile islands just north of Japan were again bombed.

Far south of the Marianas Gen. MacArthur's airmen hit Sorong and neutralized it as the last Japanese offensive airbase in New Guinea. Fifty Jap planes, five merchant ships and a half-dozen smaller vessels were wiped out.

MacArthur's fliers supported the Saipan invasion with another aerial stab at Truk. The Biak Island fighting off Dutch New Guinea continued at snail's pace. U. S. troops aiming at two more airfields have advanced 800 yards since Mokmer airdrome was captured 10 days ago. The bitter fighting has cost the Japanese at least 1655 casualties since May 27.

The Japanese captured three Chinese fortress cities in their drive to seize the Hankow-Canton railway. Changsha, all but encircled, seemed perilously close to falling.

The Chinese high command announced the withdrawal of Chinese troops from the Burma Road town of Lungling.

Southeast Asia headquarters announced the Japs had been driven out of northeastern India. In Burma the Allies tightened their sieges of Mogaung and Myitkyina.

Notables at Frances McGrath Rites

Fingerprints Clue to Killer

Even as a funeral cortege of more than 50 automobiles slowly escorted the mortal remains of 10-year-old Frances McGrath to St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester, today, police declared a belief they had the fingerprints of her killer, or killers.

Three fingerprints, two sufficiently clear to serve as identification, were discovered on her brown cloth purse, near her ravished body in a Norwell pine grove, last week.

NOT GIRL'S PRINTS

All three prints were too large to have been made by the little girl; it was stated.

They are being processed and reproduced for the hour when justice shall overtake those responsible for the most horrible crime in South Shore history.

After hundreds of friends had visited Frances McGrath's bier in the family's Richview st., Dorchester, home today, her body was taken to St. Gregory's Church.

MAYOR AT FUNERAL

The automobiles traveled a route to the Dorchester ave. edifice the little girl had walked many times in life.

The family car carried her father, former City Council John J. McGrath; his wife, Mary, and three daughters, Marylin, Nancy and Elinor. Absent were Mary Ann, 18 months, and John, 6, only son, who was hospitalized with measles Saturday when the family returned from their Scituate summer home.

State, city and county offficials rode in the cortege. Amnog them were Mayor Tobin, State Treasurer Francis X. Hurley and Acting Sheriff James J. Mellen. Also present were three school committeemen, Michael J. Ward, Daniel J. McDevitt and Joseph H. White.

PLAYMATES AT SERVICES

Others included Sen. Joseph L. Murphy, John Kerrigan, president of the city council, and Michael J. Kelleher, former president of the Clover Club.

Two automobiles filled with wreaths and flowers were in the cortege.

All arrived at the church at 9:55. Waiting there were 40 little girls dressed in white, most of them fifth grade pupils at St. Gregory's parochial school, who had studied and played with Frances McGrath.

CHURCH FILLED

As they preceded the little white casket down the aisle in the function of honorary pallbears, the church became filled. Many had to stand in the rear.

The requiem mass was conducted by the Rev. John J. Consodine, curate.

As the services proceeded, the

Baffled by Slaying Of Cadet's Bride

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 19 (AP)—Solution of the baffling attack-slaying of Mrs. Ester Drew appeared as far away today as when the pretty cadet bride's body was found in a suburban ditch Friday night.

Detective Chief Paul Rapport said no clues to the identity of the person who atabbed the 19-year-old bride of three weeks Thursday night had been uncovered.

The young woman's purse, wrist watch and shoes have not been found. Police indicated their main hope of tracing the killer rested in the possibility he would attempt to dispose of the watch.

5 Wreck School 'On Impulse'

Five Everett youths, ranging from 10 to 14 years of age, could give no explanation except that they had obeyed an impulse, while, while school officials today ruefully surveyed the terrific havoc at the Oaklanvale School in Saugus.

The five face arraignment in Lynn juvenile court Wednesday on charges of malicious destruction of property in what Police Capt. Henry Wheaton describes as the worst case of vandalism in Saugus history.

But for a checkup visit by Joseph Truesdale, the school janitor, yesterday afternoon, the quintet might have escaped scot-free.

Police were notified and a cruising car driver and Capt. Wheaton picked up the five when they detected telltale inkstains on their hands and clothing—which police claimed resulted from the boys hurling ink wells at poster exhibits on schoolroom walls.

The damage, estimated by police in excess of $2000, included broken sashes and panes in every window of the building, overturned desks and battered equipment. Baseball bats had been used to smash everything in sight. Fire extinguishers and stirrup pumps were turned on art work scheduled for exhibition.

Principal Vernon W. Evans said the 200 pupils of four grades could not return this week, and with labor the way it is, it appeared the damage could not be repaired even by then. The Everett youths had been swimming nearby when they spied the schoolhouse and started off the blitz with a barrage of bricks.

Churchill Hints Victory by Fall

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, in a speech at the Mexican embassy four days ago, permitted to be published only today, said this summer may "bring full success to the cause of freedom."

He said the invasion was a great tactical surprise to the Germans who did not know it was coming until they saw the ships and "it may be that events will occur in the next few months which will how us whether we are soon to be released of the curse which has been laid upon us by the Germans."

The invasion was launched "in full accord" with the Russians and the decisions reached at Teheran, he added, "and although the execution of the plans adopted there is far from being complete, it is being steadily unrolled, and the months of thi summer may, by the victories of this Allied campaign, bring full success to the cause of freedom."

Touching on the war's political aspects, he said efforts were being made "to achieve permanent co-operation and to build up an organization which after this war will strengthen the bonds between all our nations and will succeed in preserving peace."

"We look forward to the future in which the rights of small nations will be upheld and protected and in which the strong will use their power under the law for the protection of the weak," he said.

Whether the Germans are defeated "this year or next, the British and American peoples will never falter or withdraw their hands from the task which they have undertaken," he declared. "Together with our Allies we will go on to the end, and the end will be the more terrible for our foes the longer their struggle continues and the longer this war is protracted."

Referring to the inconvenience caused the diplomatic corps by restrictions on communications to preserve secrecy, Churchill said "the lives of a million men may be engaged now on both sides" of the present struggle in France.

"WOO GAL"—Very pretty Betty Alexander, young film-stress, has been notified by soldiers stationed in Alaska that she is their choice as "the girl we'd most like to woo in an igloo." Woo-woo!

Two-Thirds of Elba Now Held by French

By LYNN HEINZERLING

ROME, June 19 (AP)—French colonial battalions captured Portoferraio and now hold the "greater part of the island of Elba," headquarters announced today, while on the Italian peninsula mud-spattered Allied troops made gains on both flanks and in the center of their line taking Assisi, birthplace of St. Francis.

(The German-controlled Paris radio said the Allies made a second landing on Elba yesterday near Capolivieri on the southeastern corner of the island. There was no confirmation from Allied sources.)

Beating down determined German resistance on Elba, the French have rounded up several hundred prisoners, including several high officers, a communique said.

Before taking Portoferraio, the capital on the north coast, the French captured Napoleon's villa. The invading forces brought artillery against the Germans bitterly contesting control of Porto Longone on the east coast.

Fifth and Eighth Army troops in Italy are meeting increasing resistance as they drive the Germans back toward the Pisa-Rimini line, but more villages have been taken and strong pressure is being exerted against the stubborn German garrison at the central sector road hub of Perugia, 85 miles north of Rome and about 72 miles southeast of Florence.

Eighth Army troops captured Assisi, 12 miles southeast of Perugia, and Deruta, south of the bitterly contested road junction. A communique said heavy fighting also occurred at Citta Della Pieve, 22 miles southwest of Perugia. In the Adriatic sector, Allied troops are approaching the Tronto river.

Eyewitness Story of Hell In Landing on Elba

By FRANK CONNIFF

WITH FRENCH FORCES ON ELBA, June 19 (INS)—The invasion of Elba, to those of us who went through it, was the biggest show on earth but this correspondent today recalls it as the worst hell he will ever know.

Far out in the shell-raked harbour, a boat was shot from under me. This necessitated a three-mile swim through shot-churned waters, after which I spent four hellish hours, a huddled lump stretched prone at the water's edge.

We had watched the awesome chromatics of the opening exchanges. White, red and green Very lights and flashing tracer bullets made it all very beautiful.

Suddenly the ship seemed to groan. In a few seconds there was a wail of wounded mingled with barking guns. Orders were given to abandon ship, and I snapped on a life belt and plunged overboard.

Machinegun fire hissed past me and seemed to pick off the men in lifebelts like flies. Detonating ig guns bombed the water into a million pleats.

I despaird, and started to pray. Two hours passed with the battle raging all around me.

The French Commandos started to go to work and blew the Jerries out of there.

Suddenly, I realized I was safe and almost collapsed. Seven hours of shelling can leave one limp.

Shipping Pours in on Allied Beachhead

By HOWARD COWAN

ON AN AMERICAN-HELD BEACH IN NORMANDY, June 19 (AP)—This has suddenly become France's busiest port. More shipping was landed here Sunday and sent into the American lines than passed through Cherbourg during an entire month of normal operations.

And still it is pouring in. Liberty ships, LST's (landing ships, tanks), and converted ocean liners lie offshore by the scores with their umbrella of barrage balloons.

Their cargo bears a simple stenciled code word for their destination. To thousands of sailors and soldiers who toil here day and night this beach is their temporary hometown. All it needs is a chamber of commerce.

There are no houses—just tents and foxholes.

RAIDER BROUGHT DOWN

The foxholes with boards and dirt thrown over the top are more desirable residences. The canvas GI tents aren't flak-proof. Jerry comes over as soon as it gets dark and trigger-happy guncrews on the ships offshore join with the anti-aircraft lads on the beach in an ack-ack show rivaling London's.

One raider came in too low last night.

"He must be bucking for a sergeant or something," said Pvt. Sam Pollock of Brooklyn, as the German plane flew through a field of tracer fire.

A minute later the flaming plane started a long dive into the sea.

Hunnel had been over the ground before and knew where and when not to sit. This is important. The engineers still are digging German mines out of the ground. Three fellows were killed by one yesterday.

CLEAN UP BEACH

German fortifications attract the most interest. Elaborate oil paintings on the wall of a tunnel alongside a gun show the beach and landmarks with the exact range noted alongside.

Inside the tunnel under about 40 feet of earth are thousands of rounds of 88-mm. ammunition. The big shells were stored like bottles of wine. They are 1943 vintage. Four Germans still lie sprawled in front where American rangers killed them on D-Day.

The signs of fierce battles on the beach are rapidly disappearing. Twenty bulldozers are busy clearing roads. A detail of prisoners is collecting stray pieces of clothing, helmets and canteens and sorting them into huge piles. Trucks haul them away for salvage.

Road signs have gone up. Yank MP's keep the traffic moving on the right side of the road, instead of the left.

Try Transfusions to End Coma of Mrs. Higginson

Hopeful that repeated blood transfusions may rally her back to consciousness, doctors at the New England Deaconess Hospital strove today to save the life of socially prominent Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Jr., 31, mysteriously beaten in her West Cornwall, Ct., home.

The victim was rushed here by ambulance on orders of her cousin, Dr. William Scoville, USA, and her husband, Lt. Com. Higginson, scion of one of Boston's oldest and best known banking families.

Hospital officials revealed today that doctors attending Mrs. Higginson, who suffered 23 head wounds, did not plan any surgery immediately.

FAILS TO RALLY

An earlier operation was performed at Charlotte Hungerford Hospital at Torrington, Ct., but the victim failed to rally from a state of unconsciousness that has continued since she was found in her home at West Cornwall, Ct., last Friday.

Trailing the ambulance to Boston was the victim's husband, who is on furlough from Key West, Fla., naval air station, and the latter's wealthy father.

Meanwhile, State Police Commr. Edward J. Hickey of Connecticut admitted his men had uncovered little to shed light on the reason for the attack.

NO MOTIVE FOUND

"We haven't found the weapon and we haven't found the motive," he said.

Hospital authorities at Torrington described her conditions as due to a fractured skull. There are numerous head wounds evidently inflicted by a blunt instrument.

A slender, pretty brunette, Mrs. Higginson is a great-granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher, the famous preacher. Her father, the late William H. Scoville, was registrar of Hampton Institute, Va., for many years.

Noxon Prosecution To Close This Week

By PAULINE WARREN

PITTSFIELD, June 19—Dr. Alan R. Moritz of Harvard today began his third day of testimony in the trial of John F. Noxon, Jr., charged with the murder of his baby son, as the prosecution predicted it would complete its case before the week's end.

GIFT FROM POP—Edward J. Sullivan, Jr., five-month-old Woburn youngster, plays with the toy kangaroo his Navy dad, who has yet to see his son, sent home from the South Pacific. This photo is being sent to the baby's father by the Record-American.

The superior court jury is expected to listen for at least another week, perhaps two, to a defense which has recruited noted medical and scientific experts to combat the imposing array presented by the State.

Dr. Moritz, prior to the weekend recess, had testified it was his opinion that it had taken 15 minutes of application of electricity through the trouble cord to create the deep burns on the body of little Lawrence Noxon.

It has been the contention of the defendant that he was away for only five minutes from the library where the baby died.

Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti told reporters that Dr. Moritz would be followed to the stand by Dr. Frank Dutra, who is also a pathologist and assistant to Dr. Moritz.

Dr. Joseph Walker, state chemist, who made a minute examination of everything connected with the case, including tissue from the baby's arms, is scheduled to follow. The state's medical testimony is to wind up with Dr. Albert C. England, Pittsfield medical examiner, who was called to the Noxon home soon after the baby was found dead.

Many Nazi Vehicles Bear Red Crosses

ALLIED AIRSTRIP IN FRANCE, June 19 (AP)—American fighter pilots grew suspicious today of the relatively large number of vehicles behind German lines bearing Red Cross markings.

Pilots said the Germans either have an abundance of wounded or are traveling under false colors.

Pilots meticulously avoid firing on automobiles with Red Cross insignia. The only way they can make sure they are genuine is to drop low while flying 300 miles an hour or more. This is dangerous.

Vote Registration Ends Wednesday

If you intend to vote in the July 11 State primary and haven't yet registered as a voter, you have only three days left to act.

The Board of Election Commissioners announced today that registration closes at 10 p. m., Wednesday, and permission to apply for absentee ballots ends at the same time.

The commission office in City Hall Annex will be open today, tomorrow and Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. for registration, and ward registration centers will be open during the same days.

40 Before Jury In Hingham Quiz

More than 40 witnesses, including FBI agents who worked at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. Hingham plant, were called today to testify as the federal grand jury resumed inquiry into alleged payroll frauds.

Twenty-six welders and counters at the plant were indicted last Thursday and probably will be arraigned in federal court tomorrow on charges of conspiracy.

U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon and his assistant, Joseph M. Hargedon, said the list of indictments would probably reach 200 by the end of the week in the alleged defrauding of the government of about $500,000 through the filing of false payroll claims by welders and counters.

Shipyard Worker Throws Food, So Wife Wins Divorce

Her husband threw a platter of food at her Mrs. Virginia M. Guptill of Westville st., Dorchester, testified in Suffolk Probate Court today in obtaining an uncontested divorce from Philip B. Guptill, Fore River shipyard worker.

"He told the boy 'there is no God anyway' and when I said 'there is, too,' he threw the food at me," she told Judge Robert G. Wilson, Jr.

Mrs. Guptill also testified neither of her two children had been baptised "because my husband does not believe in God."

She said Guptill left her in March after she questioned him about a strong perfume odor on his shirt. She said he struck her at that time.

Judge Wilson gave her custody of Philip, Jr., 8 and Virginia M., 3, and a weekly support order for $20.

N. E.-Wide Search for 3 Hub Girls Reported Missing

A New England-wide search began for three teen-age Boston girls today after separate reports by parents that they were missing.

One is Isabell N. Rice, 16, of Fuller st, Dorchester, who failed to return home from a trip to a Boston church. She was described as five feet two inches, 114 pounds, brown hair, blue eyes, and wore a blue and white dress and brown shoes.

Another is Marion Beaulieu, 14, of Adamson st., Brighton, who was reported missing after her parents had waited anxiously for hours for her return. She is 5 feet, 7 inches, 130 pounds, brown hair and blue eyes, and wore a blue jacket with a red skirt.

Similarly missing is Cathleen Stronick, 14, of Regent st., Roxbury, described as 5 feet, 4 inches, 110 pounds, black hair and blue eyes. She wore a gray coat with velvet collar, blue skirt and green sandals.

IN BOND BATTLE—Mrs. Leigh Roberts (left) and Mrs. Norman Hitchcock of Winchester, Mass., will prepare beans for Virginians at Winchester, Va., in the Fifth War Loan "battle of the Winchesters" to outdo each other in bond sales. Simultaneous rallies will be held Saturday in the two towns . . . with the southern Winchester's best cook preparing fried chicken for bond buyers in the Bay State town.

2 in Navy Garb Rob 2 WAVES

Never again will WAVES Edith Shipp and Mary Dacier suggest that their landlady rent their room when they go away on a week-end.

Today, the two Navy girls are missing uniforms, pocketbooks, suitcases, negligees and a radio. And police are seeking two men wearing naval uniforms who occupied their room in Pinckney st., Beacon Hill, while the WAVES were vacationing.

Rites Held for Air Cadet

SALEM, June 19—Private funeral services were scheduled today at Grace Church for Roger K. Eastman, 22, aviation cadet, killed in [illegible]ne crash at Clarksdale, Miss. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Eastman of Federal st.

Bond Drive Spurts As 2d Week Starts

The Fifth War Loan drive roared into its second week today with Massachusetts buyers already purchasing a total of $15,200,000 in E bonds, or 13.5 per cent of the state's quota.

Optimistic officials predicted that this figure of first week sales may total 25 per cent of the quota when all figures have been received. There is an inevitable time lag in reporting.

At the same time, E bond sales in Greater Boston reached $10,216,000, or 15.6 per cent of the area's goal.

It is estimated that Greater Boston buyers have paid for five of the 33 LST's (landing ships, tanks), which represent the E bond goal for the area.

Meanwhile, the residents of Winchester, Mass., and Winchester, Va., were planning a bit of good clean fun which should pay off in plenty of war bond dollars.

Mrs. Norman C. Hitchcock and Mrs Leigh Roberts of Winchester, who are experts in baked bean suppers, were packing their bags for a trip to Virginia, while Aunt Susan Tokes of southern Winchester was getting ready to come north and put on a ham and chicken fry.

More than 1000 residents of the two communities are to test the traditional fare of the other, and the travelling cost of the cooks is to be paid by the community which comes out second best in war bond sales. The big feeds are scheduled for Saturday night.

At the same time, the all-service show "Direct Hit" returned to Massachusetts after a swing into Connecticut.

"Direct Hit" will play Southbridge Wednesday; Fall River, matinee and evening, Thursday; New Bedford Friday, and Taunton Saturday.

The popular radio show, "Truth or Consequences," will be broadcast from the Boston Opera House Saturday night. Tickets may be obtained by purchasing war bonds at the National Shawmut Bank and its branches.

Tonight at 8:30, a special war bond premiere of "The Story of Dr. Wassell," new Cecil B. DeMille production starring Gary Cooper, will be given at the Metropolitan Theater. Admission will be by war bond purchase only.

Postwar Housing Tip to Cities

Boston and New England leaders were told today American cities hold the key to effective preparation for better and expanded housing in the post war period by John B. Blandford, Jr., administrator of the National Housing Agency.

Speaking at a luncheon of the War Housing Advisory Committee at Hotel Statler, Blandford asserted there would be a lag in housing after the war, unless cities were ready for the expansion.

"Cities must proceed to analyze and clarify what services they want from the federal government and what they don't want in preparing for the postwar period," he said.

Blandford said his own agency was studying ways and means for helping the full development of postwar housing.

Later Mrs. Menkn noticed that her handbag, containing the money and papers, was missing.

INVASION SHOW Adds Smoke Battle

A demonstration of the part played by smoke screens as the Allied forces streamed ashore on the Normandy beaches will be given during the three-hour INVASION BOND SHOW to be staged July 4 at the Charles River Basin.

The spectacle is a feature of the $16,000,000,000 Fifth War Loan Drive and is being staged under the auspices of the Boston retail merchants and the U. S. Treasury Department, with the assistance and co-operation of the armed forces.

Smoke screens for a simulated attack and destruction of a cottage dwelling, such as the Nazis have used to convert into strongholds, will be laid by the Chemical Warfare Service under Col. S. E. Whiteside, Jr., the commanding officer, who will lead a detachment of experts.

With all the branches of the service taking part in the demonstration, the destruction of the building which will be erected on a raft 40 feet from shore will be as swift and terrifying as though in real action.

Although actual bombing of the building will not be possible, because of the close proximity of the thousands of spectators who will line the river's shore, detonating bombs, made of jellied oil and magnesium, will be touched off inside from shore controls.

Other features of the INVASION BOND SHOW will be a realistic assault upon an enemy pill box, servicemen swimming in burning oil, plane and breeches buoy rescues, air demonstrations, radio-controlled target boats. Purchasers of war bonds will be admitted to the reserved area.

Tighten Sales On New Cars

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—With the pool of new 1942 automobile dwindling rapidly, the Office of Price Administration today tightened eligibility requirements for obtaining certificates.

Effective Friday, qualified applicants must satisfy local rationing boards a new car would be used principally in an essential activity, rather than only a small part of the time.

Another change eliminates certificates for persons driving four or more students, teachers or school employes to or from schools.

The restrictions provide members of the armed services or persons waiting a call to duty may sell used 1942 cars without a rationing certificate only to members of their own families. Heretofore they could sell to anyone without a certificate.

Bricker Still Gains As Conclave Nears

CHICAGO, June 19 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's board of strategy moved into Chicago to set up pre-convention headquarters today amid talk that Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio has gained ground in the fight for the Republican presidential nomination.

New York State Republican Chairman Edwin Frank Jaeckle, National Committeeman J. Russel Sprague, and Herbert Brownell, Dewey's gubernatorial campaign manager, sent advance word to Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, self-described advance agent of "draft Dewey" movement that they were ready to give a news interview this afternoon.

SEE DEWEY ACCEPTANCE

There were reports they would give word of Dewey's willingness to accept the nomination. This contrasted sharply with Dewey's personal reticence to discuss presidential aspirations.

Talk circulated along Chicago's jammed hotel row that the indefatigable Bricker, who has spoken in every section of the country, was enlisting new delegate strength as early arrivals stood in line for rooms preliminary to the convention over a week from today.

Party activities get under way formally Wednesday with convening of the resolutions committee.

While many Republicans thought it might be Dewey on the first ballot, Roy D. Moore, Bricker's campaign manager, predicted the Ohioan would win the nomination "on the sixth or seventh ballot."

PREDICT BRICKER VICTORY

Moore, who told a news conference Bricker is the man who would be most likely to win in November, exuded confidence that seemed heightened by developments.

These included an announcement by Sen. Moore (R.) of Oklahoma, who heads Oklahoma's 23-vote delegation, that he intends to support Bricker. In addition, a member of the West Virginia delegation who declined to be quoted by name, predicted Bricker would have a majority of that state's votes on the first ballot.

The talk of an increase in Bricker strength seemed centered upon the fact that the Ohio governor has campaigned throughout the country and has made a good impression. There was talk also that "anti-Dewey factions" were concentrating behind his candidacy.

June Paper, Tin Drive Launched

Boston today launched its June collection drive for waste paper and scrap tin to meet increased military demands resulting from the invasion of France and the new South Pacific offensives.

As trucks rolled out in the first five wards of the city, storekeepers in residential districts were reminded they may place their donations on the sidewalks just the same as householders.

A record-breaking collection for June has been urged by George G. Hyland, Boston salvage director, who forecast that last month's returns of 1,408,650 pounds of paper and 352,700 pounds of tin will be topped.

"A staggering increase in the need for blood plasma containers has resulted since the invasion was launched," Hyland said. "A tremendous number of cardboard cartoons must be turned out for shipments of food, munitions, and other supplies."

The following is the schedule of collections:

Today — Boston, Wards 1 through 5; Belmont; Revere, Ward 1; Weston, central depots.

Tomorrow—Boston, Wards 6 through 10; Revere, Ward 2.

Wednesday—Boston, Wards 11 through 14; Revere, Ward 3, Winchester.

Sinatra in Phone Song to Admirer

HOLLYWOOD, June 19 (INS)—Across 3000 miles, Frank Sinatra, crooning idol of the bobby sox brigade, sang a song directly to one of his youthful admirers.

The girl was Gloria Shore, 18-year-old New Yorker, who claims to be one of the first to discover the heart-melting qualities of the Sinatra tones.

It was her birthday. As a present, her family gave her a long distance telephone call to "The Voice" in Hollywood

The call was put through to Sinatra at the M-G-M studio on the set of his new picture, "Anchors Aweigh."

McGrath

throng was scanned by state and city detectives seated strategically in the church. They had been present in and near the home while visitors called to visit the child's bier. They had been stationed along the route to the church.

And now, as prayers were lifted for the soul of Frances McGrath, the same men remained vigilant, watching intently for some movement, some suspicious act, some face which had looked upon the little girl in her hour of death.

They knew, as police have had proved to them before, that murderers of the sex-fiend category occasionally can not resist a final glimpse of their victims.

In contrast to the watchfulness of these duty-assigned police were the solemnly uttered supplications of the priest, the bowed heads of the mourners and the richly toned, reverent music consigning a child's soul to her Maker.

FAMILY BEARS UP

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath, with their family, bore up resolutely. All left the church soberly and in grief, but they met the ordeal courageously.

The body was transported then to St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury, for the committal service.

Here, again, unobtrusively eyeing the throng, were the detectives. They made no move. The body of the little girl was lowered to its final resting place, and that chapter in the tragedy had been written.

The investigation was pressed on. Police appeared more confident of solving the mystery. The fingerprints were one factor, but there were others.

Although they would not reveal their progress, officials emphasized they have two principal suspects under surveillance and are proceeding on the theory that two men, working together, kept the child captive four days before she was strangled and her body deposited in a lonely pine grove in Norwell.

State chemists and fingerprint experts were working rapidly to complete examination of a two-gallon water jug, bottles, mattresses and other equipment found in a recently abandoned Norwell shack and in a North Cohasset barn.

In the reports of these experts, investigators are counting on finding the evidence they need to track down the slayer or slayers.

Explaining their belief that the fiendish crime was the work of more than one man, police pointed out that the medical examination of little Frances' violated body showed no signs that she had been bound or tied.

The medical examiner's report that she was alive until last Tuesday, four days after she vanished from a bowling alley in Scituate Harbor, plus the lack of evidence that she was restrained by a rope or chain, indicates that two men were involved, detectives maintain.

They believe that one fiend kept guard over the prisoner while the other brought food and drink.

USED AS HIDEOUT

The North Cohasset barn where the water jug was found had been broken into and used as a hideout, police learned. Furniture had been stored there and a mattress had been dragged out for use as a bed. Paper bags, bits of food and cigarette butts were found, and a towel and stained blanket were also discovered.

Possibility that this barn was the hideout where Frances met her sad fate was under investigation from every angle.

While South Shore police continued their roundup of all persons suspected of sex offenses against small girls, Boston authorities questioned, and later eliminated as a suspect, a 17-year-old boy picked up for molesting a five-year-old child in Preble st., South Boston.

Where is New England?

NEW ENGLAND HAS "MOVED." AND WE BELIEVE THE ANSWER TO THIS QUESTION IS THE KEY TO NEW ENGLAND'S FUTURE

WESTWARD by water came New England's founders. Farther westward by land they traveled to help to build our Nation. New England cities continued to enjoy their coastal advantages, while many inland cities acquired the advantages of being more accessible to U.S. markets because of their central locations. That was before air transportation changed old concepts of geography.

Effectively, today, New England has "moved" to the top of the world!

The miles which separate this region from the rest of the nation are no longer a prohibitive factor in New England's life. Because, by air, the measure of distance is time.

Just as air transportation's time-saving speed and freedom of movement have placed New England within the quick and easy access of every airline-served community in the land, so they have done the same globally!

In every direction lie limitless new opportunities that have been created by air transportation. What is made of these opportunities rests with the men and women of New England—and with the airlines that serve them.

Before and during this war, New England's first Airline has rendered this region an air service second to none throughout the land.

By using this service with vision and enthusiasm, travelers and shippers are capitalizing to a great extent on the opportunities it affords. In this way, American Airlines is playing a part in benefiting New England's industrial and intellectual life.

It is American's pledge that, after the war, even finer service will be provided—from more New England cities to more places in this and foreign lands. On this foundation, an even greater, even more prosperous New England can be built!

With N. E. Boys Overseas

Musicians Abound Among Servicemen

By HUCK FINNEGAN

ENGLAND—The old Bay State didn't lack for musical talent on the ship that brought this traveler and photographer Bill Jones overseas. Playing the sax for the ship's four-piece band was fleshy, 30-year-old Pvt. Philip L. Beaudoin of 52 Manchester st., Lawrence. Soloist was Pvt. Ralph Sweeney, 28 Kendall st., Framingham, whose "Paper Doll" littered every corner of the deck before landing.

Two others whose military duties kept them from participating in the fun were a pair of Ipswich boys, Lt. Francis D. Mullins, 7 East st., and T5 Emile F. Saulnier, 23 Brownville ave.

IN EVERY STATE

Lt. Mullins graduated in '32 from Manning High, where he drum majored and played piano and sax in the school's orchestra. After graduating from Burdett's in '34 he worked in the Lynn G. E. and at night had his own band called "The New Englanders." One of his aces was Saulnier.

Lt. Mullins' traveling wasn't confined to the band. He's been in the service since Feb. 6, 1940, and soldiered in every state in the union since then. Believe it or not, in the first seven months of his military career he was stationed in 28 states. He made his longest stand in Grinell, Ia, where he taught finance in the Officer Candidate School.

He married Maxine O. Budde of Wisconsin during his pilgrimage, and has a daughter Dixie O., who will be 2 years old in September. His mother, Mrs. Amelia Mullins, lives at 7 Summer st., Ipswich.

Like the other Greater Boston officers aboard, Lt. Mullins is happy to be out of the U. S. "Looked as if I was going to wind up a school teacher," he smiled. "I've had my bid in for two years for overseas duty. Tell the folks I'm getting along well."

GREAT EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Mullins' son is doing right well. He was top shot among the finance officers on board, and he'll go higher.

Saulnier, 27, played guitar and mandolin for Mullins five years back, and the lieutenant says "he's a corker." He isn't married, but if things go well the next few years he'll trip to the altar, upon his return, with Dottie Roberts, 8 Fifth ave., Haverhill. His mother died a year ago Christmas day, but his father, Fred, still lives on Brownville ave.

"A great experience," Emile terms the overseas junket. "I've always wanted to travel, and now perhaps I'll see something. I'm a French-Canadian and would like nothing better than to visit France — before Christmas. I hope to take Dottie there on our honeymoon later."

SPARE TIME SINGER

Saulnier has been in the Army two years, and before that built sub-chasers at Robertson's shipyard. Besides his girl, the thing he misses most of all is outboard racing on the Ipswich river. "My brother Louis and I built our own boat. We've done 60 miles an hour in it."

Beaudoin was with Ray Moore's band for two years before joining the Army, and knew Boston inside out. "I played at the Essex, Silver Dollar Bar and the Circle Club in Revere," he said. He has a younger brother Leo, who took part in the invasions of Africa, Sicily and Italy, and who, at latest reports, was still thriving on the diet.

Sweeney left behind a wife, the former Gladys McConnell of Adams, and two children, Bruce 8, and George, 6. He used to work days in the Waldorf Restaurant in Framingham, and picked up pin money at night by singing at Framingham's Winthrop Hotel, at Natick's Pine Oaks, "and I've sung at the Silver Dollar in Boston, too," he said. For the past year and a half, however, he's been singing solely for the benefit of the GI Josephs and Josephines.

Framingham boys who insist Sweeney is better than Frank Sinatra, after listening to him nightly on the boat, are Pvt. Angelo Terasconi, 31 Hilton st., and Pvt. Alebert Benedetti, 43 Bridges st. Angelo is 23 and engaged to Josephine De Saldi, 71 Hayward st., Milford.

PALS IN NAVY

So enamoured of Josephine is he that he worked as a heel-fitter in Derman's Shoe Factory in Milford and danced at the Sons of Italy emporium in the same city. He's been in the service nine months, and if the war ends tomorrow, it will be all right with Angie. He wants to get married.

Benedetti has been in the Army 16 months, and can't understand why he didn't join the Navy. "Out of the 50 fellows who used to hang around the corner, 48 are in the Navy," sighs 21-year-old Al. The youngster lost his mother last Armistice Day, and that was a severe shock to the family of eight.

Gloria, 17, is doing her best to take her mother's place, sending the children to school while father Salvatore goes to work.

Al sends home as much money as he can, but would like to put something away against the day he marries Shirley Southwick. He couldn't save much before the war in his job at Horn and Short's shoe factory in Natick.

Plant More Seed In V-Gardens

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Garden Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Record-American-Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.

Those who nursed their gardens through the drought by patient watering are beginning to get dividends.

Our demonstration garden has already produced peas, spinach, lettuce, cabbage, radishes, beet greens and chard. If you have followed our plan you should likewise be harvesting these early crops and saving considerable on the food budget.

Mistakes are now showing up. Poor stands of seed caused by careless planting and soil preparation. Delayed growth and weak plants where thinning was delayed and loss of plants by insect attacks.

PESTS SHOWING UP

The cabbage maggot damage is now showing up where protection was not given. Only yesterday I saw a row of cabbage with about 60 per cent of the plants damaged. This loss could have been prevented by the use of tar paper discs or corrosive sublimate. Tomato plants have in some cases been seriously set back by the flea beetle. A little dust would have saved the plant and prevented delay.

Now is a good time to start your diary if you have not already done so, and keep notes on this year's mistakes so as to avoid them next year. Do not rely on your memory.

PLANT MORE SEED

Watering pays as is shown by comparison of gardens. Gardens that were watered are up to schedule while others are either delayed or must be replanted. While on the subject of soil moisture let me again suggest that now is an excellent time to plant seed as the soil has plenty of moisture and seeds will come fast. Plant all seeds a little deeper now.

Space Crops—Crops such as pole beans, lima beans, cucumbers, and squash are now reaching the stage where they should be thinned and spaced properly.

For pole-beans leave four or five good plants to the pole. This will give you all the foliage necessary and help in the control of insects. If you leave too many plants to the pole you are only inviting trouble with the bean beetle and rust.

ROOM TO GROW

Lima beans should have room to grow—allow about two good plants for each food of row. These plants produce more under conditions where they are not crowded.

Summer squash and cucumbers will be better if the plants have room to develop. Leave only three or four plants to the hill. Follow good cultural practices and avoid trouble.

From outside the strains of aGI Negro band ,entertaining envalescents, drifts through tle afternoon in the shock tent—

"Shoo shoo shoo baby—"

The boy on the first cot doesn't hear it. He breathes with a whistling sound through the tube in his throat where the bullet hit . . .

—"Don't cry baby—"

Doctors and Nurses Work Tirelessly

Far back in the two operating tents, with the four tables in each, teams of doctors and nurses work steadily, tirelessly, skillfully, hour after hour. Familiarity with this side of the war has made them shockproof, but not callous. Almost an air of cheerfulness fills the brightly lighted tent as surgeons, torsos stripped to leather aprons, bend to their work.

"Got a letter from Jennie today," one remarks proudly through his mask, quick fingers probing for the shell fragments in the man's back, deft scissors clipping the crimson hole wider as the probe sinks deep . . .

One Jokes Before Losing His Foot

"What gives?" he asks the nurse at his head.

"You're going to sleep now, pal. You'll wake up in about eight hours, feeling rested and hungry."

"You said 'wake up,' didn't you?" the GI wisecracks grimly.

Soon he is asleep while the best surgeons in the world amputate his foot.

"Here's an unusual case," one of the doctors calls, indicating the man on his table. "Because of fractured jawbones anaethetic must be administered through a tube into his nostril. Oh yes, he's doing fine—see the bladder? His breathing is steady and strong . . . He'll be all right except for his tongue . . ."

Boom of Guns Means Busy Night

No one in here notices the muffled boom of guns a few miles away—except one doctor who looks up to listen and remarks soberly:

"Sounds like a busy night . . ."

You can still hear the Negro band faintly—

"Shoo shoo shoo baby . . ."

Mercy In War—In the shock tent, or pre-op' tent, of the advance hospital in Italy. Day or night—depending on the fighting—ambulances brought the wounded here after they were X-rayed, waiting to be operated on. The boy in the foreground is breathing through a tube in his neck where the bullet struck. He is not in conscious, but is not in serious danger. His X-rays hangs over the improvised cot. The man just beyond has a foot wound. The next one, sitting up, is smiling a fixed grin of pain because a doctor is probing for shrapnel in his back. "Now you can breathe better, can't you?" The soldier agrees, still grinning, but now very pale. Prisoners and our soldiers are treated exactly alike here. There was a prisoner in a bed farther down While Burris Jenkins, Jr., was making this sketch. He heard an orderly say, "How do you say go to sleep in German?" The doctor told him: "Schla fen sie."

Advance Base Hospital—After making this sketch, Journal-American artist, Burris Jenkins, Jr., wrote the following description: A wounded soldier just brought in from the front in Italy has undergone the amputation of one of his feet by the most skillful doctors in the world. Doctors and nurses work in "teams" as casualties mount during the fighting. "If a man is breathing when he gets here, we'll save him," says one doctor.

Back Up Your Sons!

"The purchase of extra War Bonds during the Fifth War Loan Drive is an opportunity for the home front to back the men overseas who are on the brink of the greatest clash of armed forces in the history of the world." —SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY HENRY MORGENTHAU, JR., IN A MESSAGE TO WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

IT IS THE DUTY of every American to participate in this Fifth War Loan Drive to the limit of his pocketbook.

There is only one way for those of us who are not fighting to stand side-by-side with our sons, brothers, fathers, loved ones and friends.

That is to back them on the beachheads and soil of France with BONDS.

Without money—and plenty of it—the United States could not have launched, with its British and Canadian allies, the greatest military offensive in all history.

That offensive you are paying for in BONDS.

Without you and your Bond-purchasing power, this war cannot be fought to a successful end.

The American paratroopers who land behind the enemy lines in France are supported in the air not only by apparatus but also by BONDS.

BONDS bought the parachutes.

BONDS provide paratroopers with safety apparatuses.

BONDS build battleships, guns, airplanes.

BONDS buy the maximum of safety for all the fighting sons of Uncle Sam.

There lies ahead of us the most tremendous job that any country has ever undertaken.

It is the conquest of the road to Berlin.

We have the brave men, the great commanders, the spirit and the physical will.

But we need MORE MONEY to back our boys and their commanders.

You were going to buy something you do not really need.

Put that money into BONDS to back your fighters.

You were going to spend a lot of unnecessary money on a vacation that you believe you need.

Put that money into BONDS.

Our millions of men overseas and those about to go will have no vacation—unless it is the eternal sleep.

The more BONDS you buy the quicker your loved ones will return home.

The more money you put into BONDS the shorter the war.

BONDS are an investment—not a gift on your part. And they are not only an investment in cold cash.

They are an investment—AN INSURANCE—for your fighters and for your own safety.

They are an investment in LIBERTY.

They are an investment in VICTORY.

THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS and the Blue Network have inaugurated a gigantic Victory Army Drive.

From now until July 8, when the drive will end, the Hearst newspapers, with 181 stations on the Blue Network, will give millions of American listeners national and international broadcasts acclaiming American heroes from Valley Forge to Cherbourg.

The purpose of this campaign is to make us all BOND-CONSCIOUS.

What is the most frightful word that can be accusingly used against any American in time of war?

It is "SLACKER."

Don't be a "slacker."

Buy a Bond today.

Buy a Bond tomorrow.

Buy all the Bonds you can.

A fighting American is looking at you, with his gun in hand, from the beachheads of Normandy. His eyes are saying:

"BACK ME WITH BONDS!"

WASHINGTON, June 19—When I first got this job, a fellow named Connolly or something like that, took me aside and said:

"Do not be content with scratching the surface. Go after personal, inside stuff."

Well, I have finally gotten some personal, inside stuff and I hope Mr. Connolly is satisfied. I know of nothing that could be more personal or more inside. It is this:

Rep. Frank B. Keefe, of Wisconsin, is unable to buy any new underwear!

THE REASON Rep. Keefe cannot buy any new underwear is that he is too large. He is 6 feet, 4, and weighs in the neighborhood of 240 pounds—which is one of the most rapidly - developing neighborhoods in town. He has no present intention, however, of subdividing.

The fault, according to Mr. Keefe, lies somewhere between the War Production Board and the Office of Price Administration. For short, I have decided to call them the WPB and OPA respectively. You may use these abbreviations, too, if you wish—making sure, of course, that you give me proper credit.

Because of the joint machinations of WPB and OPA—according to Mr. Keefe—it is impossible to get nether lingerie, meaning shorts, larger than size 46. The smallest he can get into—even using a shoehorn—is size 50.

Rep. Keefe, who hails from Oshkosh—and, if you know any gags about Oshkosh, keep them—confided to me that he considers his prospects downright horrid. He said he does not regard it as at all fitting for an elected representative of the people to be going around undrawered.

Furthermore, he has been forced to listen to some very fresh remarks whenever he airs his plaint. It seems there are people so utterly callous and lost to all human sympathy that they see something funny in the prospect of a 240-pound Congressman bereft of his shorts.

He has also received much gratuitous, and worthless advice, as to what to do when his present supply of cute, little, underthings wears out—coupled with a reminder that he is a Republican, and that it is well for a Republican to be sure he is adequately girdled at all times.

This sort of thing, needless to say, tears the very fabric of democracy. And — as Rep. Keefe points out—this is no time for fabric-tearing.

NEVERTHELESS, the Wisconsin solon would have to put up with it a while longer, he told me, but for a constituent whose plight is even worse. Mr. Keefe has a couple of changes left, but the constituent has no remaining underwear whatsoever.

The drawerless voter is Ray Moody, also of Oshkosh. He is 6-6, and weighs 260 pounds. In a letter to his Congressman, Moody said he had written to dry goods establishments all over the country and had not been able to buy a stitch of underwear big enough.

"I will admit that I am fairly big," Moody wrote Keefe. "But I was not too big to fight in the last war and I am not too big to buy war bonds. But the WPB, or the OPA, won't let me have any shorts."

Moody said he had written to OPA and had received a reply that he could get his size shorts at a certain establishment in Toledo, O. But the store, he said, sent back answer that OPA was only kidding.

Rep. Keefe took the matter so seriously he got up on the floor of the House and asked if any Congressman could tell him how to get underwear for his constituent. Several of the Congressmen looked quite interested, but offered no information.

The only suggestion—which Rep. Keefe ignored came from Rep. Noah M. Mason (R.) of Illinois. When Keefe told of Moody's short shortage, Mason shouted:

"Give him a pair of yours!"

Mr. Keefe later said he would be delighted to do just that—but that Mr. Moody's extra 20 pounds made the suggestion unworkable.

Journey far across the world
On an ocean blue,
Holding Freedom's Flag unfurled,
None so brave as you.
None so true—though far apart,
You will always hold my heart,
—JOSEPH C. WHITTEMORE.

ABOVE IS AN acrostic for a fighting man named Johnny. The name Johnny seems to inspire songs and poetry. Consider the songs "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and "Oh, Johnny, How You Can Love!" But nobody ever writes a song about a fellow named Oscar, Howard, Edgar or Alfred . . . Mohammedans never discuss the weather, as they feel to do so would be to criticize the arrangements of Allah . . . One of the largest organizations engaged in making battle planes has completed its plans for the postwar period. It will make home appliances such as ranges, freezers, heaters, refrigerators and electronic devices. Is interesting to note what line of business the smart fellows think is going to be very good after the war . . . U. S. Navy man states he received a 30,000-word letter from his wife. "Is it the record?" asks he. As far as I know, the record for length of letter received by man in armed forces is 32,700 words. It was written by an Army wife.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—What kind of an organization is the Schooner Club? A—It is a very worth-while organization formed for promoting smooth sailing on the sea of matrimony. Is made up of couples determined to do everything possible to be happy though married. The wives exchange ideas on how to handle husbands. The husbands exchange advice on how to make a wife happy. Q—Why are you against tipping? A—Who said I was against tipping? I am for tipping. I was once a hotel employe myself. However, am opposed to the management taking the tips the patrons intend for the employes. Am also opposed to idea of an employe's receiving no salary and depending entirely on tips for his income. Why should a customer who pays high prices for food, drink, etc., be also asked to take care of the employer's payroll? Q—You're an authority on opera. Who was the greatest opera basso of all time? A—I am no authority on opera. Am just an opera fan in a small way. However, if you want my opinion, I shall say that Mardones was the greatest basso of the 20th Century.

"Every time I aim at a German, another one gets in the way!"

By George Dixon

SEN. ALLEN J. ELLENDER, of Louisiana, was up to his ears in long distance phone calls and dictation the other day when a page brought notice of a meeting of the Senate Small Business Committee, in which Ellender is greatly interested.

The Senator threw a quick glance at the message which bore the notation "Room 345, Senate Office Building." He also looked at the clock and saw he was five minutes late for the meeting.

He dashed from his office and started down the miles of corridors, looking for Room 345. In fact, he circled the whole floor.

Finally he came to Room 345. It was his own office!

He looked at the notice again and discovered how he had gone wrong. The "Room 345" was the address to which the page was to deliver the message:

"My only excuse," said Ellender, "is that we Senators have a lot on our minds these days."

PLEASE NOTE: A "humanizing Garbo" campaign is reported in progress. Idea is to show that Greta has been misunderstood; that she has been aloof because she is shy; that she really is a very democratic person and "a regular fellow" type. I hope this campaign succeeds. If Greta would appear more often on programs of entertainments for the armed forces it might help.

SAYS SHE: "'More WACs wanted' seems to be the cry in desperate tones," states a Union City, N. J., subscriber. "WACs require candidates be 58 inches tall, weigh 100 pounds. I am 57½ inches tall, weigh 93 pounds. They rejected me. I passed all other tests. My health is perfect and I am very strong. I work eight hours in an office in the day and at night as a volunteer nurse's aid and am never fatigued. I can do anything any WAC can do and they reject me. Sticking so close to height and weight requirements is just red tape at its worst. Let the WAC authorities use a little common sense and their enlistments will increase tremendously. If a man four feet and eight inches tall can be a tail gunner on a bomber, why can't a girl four feet nine and one-half inches tall be a WAC?"

Hollywood Today

HOLLYWOOD, June 19—Bing gets his way—meaning an "unknown" plays the title role in "The Great John L." Greg McClure is the lucky gent.

He's a 26-year-old Irishman, built like an "ad" for a physical culture training course, two-fisted and tres good looking. He got the job over dozens of other entries in the most casual manner possible. He just showed up at the studio and asked for Bing.

Crosby was impressed and immediately turned his protege over to Director Frank Tuttle for a test. Frank is no novice with newcomers. He is credited with giving Alan Ladd his first chance, and Ladd is to movie fans what Sinatra is to bobby sox. Next in line to put an official okay on McClure were Co-Producers James Grant and Frank Mastroly.

THE MOVIES' first American operetta, "Huckleberry Finn," will be written by Sally Benson for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She gets here August 15, and Arthur Freed told me he considers Sally the writer best qualified to write a real American operetta. Mark Twain's story of boyhood along the Mississippi river is one of the classics of American literature. David Selznick filmed "Tom Sawyer," companion to "Huckleberry Finn," several years ago, and it was a charming picture. The difficulty, I should think, for Arthur would be to get youngsters with good voices.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT is reading Eugenie Leontovitch's play, "Dark Eyes," so you know she is thinking about making a movie. When I talked with her a few days ago she said two months would probably be all she needs to get rested and well. "In fact, I am already feeling the urge," said Claudette, "and if the script of 'Dark Eyes' is as cute as the play I shall be greatly interested." Howard Hawks is expected to direct, which is another reason Claudette is favorably inclined. There are two important female roles and the selection of the other actress is under consideration.

A LONG LETTER from Binnie Barnes, who is East with Maj. Mike Frankovich. She said: "Thought I would drop a line to let you know how very sweet Mike and I think you have been to us. As you know by this time, we are together again and very happy. We had a long talk and now have a complete understanding of each other—much better than we had before. I think this war sometimes distorts our viewpoint and when our boys come back we must learn to have more patience with them. Often they are a little changed, but it only took us a few weeks to settle our trouble. We leave for New York tomorrow, where I am going to talk to Billy Rose about his new show, and Mike sends his love and his gratitude, too."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Any lingering doubts in anyone's mind about Lou Costello's complete recovery can be dispelled. Lou is back doing heavy falls, tumbles and bumps (not the burlesque variety) in "Abbott and Costello in Society," and he's doing them himself in spite of the fact Universal had hired a "double" that looked exactly like the rolypoly. But when Lou saw the other boy about to go into his (Lou's) old comedy routines he insisted the kid be paid for the doubling stint, but took over the stunts, himself.

I'D LIKE to make a prophecy today. I want to say I believe Andre Daven, in another year, will be one of Hollywood's most important producers. If "Home in Indiana" is any criterion, he will go far. He has the same sensitive touch that has made Sidney Franklin's pictures so outstanding. Henry Hathaway shares in this praise, too. This film came as a surprise because with that title I didn't expect much from it. But the title is the only thing weak with this pictorially delightful, sentimental movie.

FILMING A Thomas Wolfe novel would be a job few producers would undertake. Yet, if it is to be done, I don't know of anyone better than Arthur Ripley and Rudolph Monter, who have made "Voice in the Wind." They could get the mood of "Look Homeward Angel," which they are planning to make. It is a difficult story to adapt, at best, and would be as much of a departure from the conventional movies as was "Voice in the Wind."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Tay Garnett, one of the nicest guys in this town, and Dorothy Haas of the "Ziegfeld Follies," are aflame; Craig Stevens' wedding gift to his bride, Alexis Smith, is a portrait of herself done by Paul Clemens. He has done one of Merle Oberon, and I met him and his wife at luncheon at her house a few weeks ago; Mrs. Diana Fitzmaurice was badly hurt in an automobile accident, in which she says the other car ran into her—same sort of thing that happened to Michael Arlen, who suffered very painful injuries; Jack Conway, who has been in poor health for a long time, has had to leave the direction of "The Clock;" Clark Gable won't make a picture until September. He leaves on a vacation when he finishes the picture he made overseas; wonderful news—Damon Runyon is well enough to be in Chicago to cover the Republican convention. No one can report political happenings with his skill. Adela Rogers St. John, another ace writer, will be there turning out swell copy. She'll stay with Colleen Moore. This writer is leaving Tuesday for Chicago to do the "Feminine Angle" of the big show; Mimi Chandler, daughter of Sen. "Happy" Chandler, has given up her Paramount contract to become a housewife and live near her husband, Maj. John Cabell. She is a real beauty and was one of the loveliest brides I have ever seen. Saw Gail Patrick at the reception at Gen. Walter Story's house and she was proudly introducing her brother, who just received his wings. There were more socialites than movie folk and many men in uniform.

Bay Staters Heroes in Lunge By 9th Division in Normandy

By AUSTEN LAKE

The 9th U. S. Infantry Division has again won immortality by smashing across the Cherbourg peninsula and occupying seven miles of west coast beachheads. These are the battle-tough veterans of Bizerte, a division thickly sprinkled with Boston and New England soldiers, few of whom have seen home for more than two years.

Short weeks ago, when the writer lived with the 9th, scattered as it was around one of England's oldest Saxon cities as spokes around the hub of a wheel, it had a pet peeve. From its C. O. to the lowliest buckaroo it felt that it had been ignored by the public prints of the U. S., that its deeds of daring had not been recognized.

Not that the men were seeking glory for themselves. But they were devoutly jealous of their division's place in tradition. Their part in the paralyzing attack on Bizerte had been overlooked by the press and they were justifiably sore about it.

Today, with a more elastic policy of publicity, the 9th is making big, black headlines on the front pages of the nation, and I find myself thinking of Father Edward T. Connors, the Catholic chaplain from 70 Mendon st., Uxbridge, who liked to refer to himself, satirically, as "Tough Guy Connors." The men of Lt. Connor's artillery regiment obeyed their officers with a docile, selfless discipline, but they'd storm the ramparts of hell with the soldier priest—as they're doing now. And I know that the lean, sandy haired, ex-Holy Crosser is where the hornet swarm of enemy fire is thickest, looking after his flock.

The men of the 9th had been through the hell-born trials of Tunisia and Sicily. Lads like Ernest DiMarzio of 7 Elliott ave., Reading; Pete Strozzi of 11 Fourth st., East Cambridge; George Connolly of 15 Oakland st., Arlington; Bill D'Amico of 11 Concord ave., Norwood; Jacob "Jack" Kargir of 115 Colbourne crescent, Brookline; James J. McCarthy of 16 Prospect Hill ave., Somerville; Frank Castignaetti of 1420 Salem st., Malden; Harold "Piky" McCutcheon of 11 Rhinecliffe st., Arlington, and Robert Gautier of 24 South st., Lowell.

WANT IT OVER WITH

There was no enthusiastic welcome to the prospect of invasion, as among some of the outfits that had not yet received their first baptism of enemy fire.* Merely a cold, impersonal resolve and a chill eagerness to get on with the business that might lead them toward home. Let the Nazi radio propagandists sneer about our "want-to-go-home soldiers," for this craving is the greatest moral driving force of our war—to get at the enemy who are obstructing their dearest desire, rub him ruthlessly out and get it over with. They don't hate the Germans as a people, but they hate them as a blockading symbol.

So, at least, said soldiers of the 9th, like Frank Costello of 82 Claybourne st., Dorchester; Frank Santos of 8 Valley st., Fall River, Sheldon B. Stoddard of 17 Doane st., Cohasset, Bill McGonagle of 9 Graylock rd., Allston.

They are men like Stanley Norvick of 787 Columbia rd., Dorchester; Larry Gould of 43 Edgewater rd., Nantasket; Ray Charron of 326 Chestnut st., North Attleboro; Henry Shimoski of 30 Superior rd., Worcester; Joe Cabral of 40 Valley st., Lawrence; Francis J. Higgenbottom of 11 Wells st., Lawrence; Tom Flynn of 1446 Center st., Roslindale; Charles Brady of 31 Dudley st., Roxbury; Pete Russo of 11 First st., Woburn; Doug Foster of 10 Prospect st., Charlestown, and Joe Vinci of 106 River st., Haverhill

COSMOPOLITAN ARMY

Ed Ward of 26 Alexander st., Dorchester; Charles Harris of Orleans; Ray Fuller of Main st., North Oxford; John Hurley of 17 Forest st., Cambridge; Joe Polito of 124 South st., Lowell; Frank Leone of 106 Cross st., Quincy; Dick Kane of 41 Harriet st., Brighton; Dick Gibbons of 84 Clark st., Clinton; Al Digiune of Camp Chanrudema, Winchendon; Marty Shaughnessy of 24 Pearson ave., Somerville; Don Ross of 54 Townsend ave., Braintree, and Irving Chafnas of 30 Walnut st., Roxbury.

Ours is the most cosmopolitan army in the world, and the 9th is no exception. Consider, for example, the racial origin of the roll call of these lads who have just helped seal the strategic neck of land where the vital supply of Cherbourg lies: Clarence "Carl" White of 61 Johnson st., Cambridge; Michael Ramey of 387 Chestnut st., Lawrence; Herve "Frenchy" Dolois of 21 Alpine st., Fairhaven; John Vandenburgh of 577 Third st., Fall River.

Joe Gonsavles of 25 Follen st., Back Bay; Joe LaChance of 485 Moody st., Lowell; Wilber "Larry" Gardner of Brookfield; Philip Coroselli of 57 Dixon st., Dedham; Cyorian Romaniecki of 49 Andover st., Lowell; Alex Ludovin of 75 Summer st., Fall River; Jim Flannagan of Buckingham rd., Wollaston; Ferdinand Loblunde of 75 Brighton st., Boston; Fred D'Amore of 1107 Columbus ave., Roxbury; Matt Mulholland of 38 Vine st., Roxbury.

Sidney Lavison of 540 Warren st., Roxbury; Henry Handelman of 91 Esmond st., Dorchester; Mike Caliri of 39 Elmdale st., Dorchester; Ed Snarsky of 741 North Montello st., Brockton; Nick Yarose of 48 Garden st., Boston; Al Ferrante of Hays st., Framingham; Paul Lysaght of 384 Harvard st., Dorchester; Phil Bastable of 1109 Washington st., Attleboro.

These and many others in the immortal 9th, now spearheading the most hazardous adventure in our European assault, are Americans who, with their mixture of national origin, make up the mosaic of the U. S. A. and represent the voice of our tomorrow.

Men of the famous 9th like Vic Gemelli of 44 Bellevue st., Dorchester; George Tsiknas of Hyannis; Ron Murphy of 73 Reservoir st., Cambridge; Bart Connolly of 748½ East Third st., South Boston; Dick Panto, Jr., of 38 Forest Park ave., Springfield; George Dugan of 41 Brent st., Dorchester; Dick Bertone of 43 School st., Everett; Paul Withington of 58 Pinckney st., Beacon Hill, and Dick Chute of 46 Hingham st., Rockland.

This time, in this battle, the 9th cannot be ignored, even though there was no intention of slighting them in Africa. They are writing their tradition in blood and flame in Normandy, an indelible record that will sear deeply and forever into American minds. Hail to the 9th!

'Blind Date' Barrels of Fun

By LEO GAFFNEY

The shape of things to come in television—which is ready to go as soon as the war is over—is contained in radio programs like "Blind Date," the cute thing that spreads over the air every Monday night.

For "Blind Date" is a show itself that must be seen, as the old pitch-men say, to be appreciated. Hearing it is only half enough. You've got to look right at the boys and girls to know the whole game of getting a date by voice alone.

And so it didn't need much persuasion to convince the powers at the RKO-Boston that they ought to take this enormously popular radio program and put it on as a stage show for one full week, beginning next Thursday.

Arleen Francis, the sharp-witted girl who acts as hostess to the whole affair, will be here to help the various boys and girls over the hazard of getting together. As usual, the boys will be selected from the military centers hereabouts and also from the Buddies Club and USO organizations. The girls are competing for the honor at the offices of the Keith Memorial.

The regular coast-to-coast broadcast will be given a week from tonight from the RKO-Boston stage. Otherwise the show is the same at every performance here, only with a fresh set of boys and girls each time.

Parents needn't worry about the proprieties. All that is taken care of by the radio authorities. Trustworthy chaperonage is provided from the time the couples meet on the stage, through the evening at the Ritz Roof until home and mother are regained.

In case you haven't heard, "Blind Date" takes place on a divided stage, boys on one side, girls on the other—separated by a partition. Boys can't see girls. Girls can't see boys until introduced by Miss Francis.

But audience sees all. For every girl there are two boys. Must be G. I. Each boy telephones to a girl on the other side of the partition. When two boys have recommended themselves the girl must choose which she prefers for the evening of dining and dancing at the Ritz Roof.

Win or lose, its barrels of fun. Losers get consolation prizes.

"Blind Date" began in a theater, went to radio, is now back in the theater. Next stop television.

Cereals Plus

By MARTHA LEE

CRISP AS THE CRACK of a sail in the wind and just as refreshing are the ready-to-eat cereals for summer snacks. Ready-to-serve at the slitting of a box top, the cereals are summer's best snacks and a find for nutrition since a bowl of cereal with milk gives you all these important nutrients—protein, the B-vitamins (thiamine, riboflavin, niacin), minerals (calcium, iron), energy. Few between-meals can boast such nutrients in a single dish, and none can give it to you more quickly.

IN THE AFTERNOON

For the light lunch you look for on a hot day, or the pick-up when you're wilting in mid-afternoon, bank on a bowl of cereal topped with your favorite fresh fruit and plenty of milk. It's a wonderful idea for the small fry who want to join with the grown-ups at tea-time; they'll like their cereal snack better if you let them choose their own fruit to top it from the fruit bowl—or perhaps serve mixed sliced fruits atop the cereal.

SNACK BOWLS

Fill large shallow individual cereal bowls with corn, bran or wheat flakes. Place a pile of sliced strawberries in center of each. Blend cream cheese and honey to smooth consistency; place spoonful in center on berries in each bowl. Serve with milk and sugar.

'TWEEN MEAL TREAT

Cut shredded wheat biscuits in half crosswise. Spread with fruit jelly. Serve in cereal bowls with light cream.

Cereal cookies are favorites wherever there's a houseful of children—including father when it comes to cookies. Cereal cookies have a flavor and texture all their own, an old-fashioned, sturdy quality everybody enjoys. Choose among oatmeal, corn flakes, bran for delicious variety in cereal cookies. A tall glass of milk, a plateful of these cookies to nibble and there's a snack to make you smile at a hot afternoon.

OATMEAL CUT-OUTS

6 tbsp. shortening
½ cup sugar
1¼ cups rolled oats
⅝ cup flour
¼ tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ cup water

Cream shortening until soft; gradually add sugar, creaming well. Stir in rolled oats. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and cinnamon. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately wtih water. Mix well. Roll out to ⅛-inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut in rounds, diamonds or any shape desired using cookie cutter or cardboard pattern. Bake on greased cookie sheet in hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen 2-inch cookies.

CHOCOLATE NUGGETS

1¼ cups sifted flour
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. soda
1 cup corn flakes
1-3 cup shortening
wnoɹ dnɔ ɜ-ɹ sugar
1 egg yolk
2 tbsp. milk
¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate bits

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs and add to flour mixture. Blend shortening and sugar until creamy; add egg yolk and milk and beat well. Add dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Place dough on lightly floured board and roll to thickness of 1-16 inch. Cut with 1½-inch round cookie cutter. Place circle on ungreased baking sheet, put 3 to 4 pieces of chocolate on top and cover with another circle, forming a sandwich. Bake in a moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 2 dozen cookies (1¾ inches in diameter).

Fashion

AS BECOMING to the small woman as to the youngster . . . is this junior miss print of New York design. Of warm brown crepe . . . with seashell motif . . . its soft lines and flattering bows are typical youthful dress-making assets. The new seashell jewelry fantasies would greatly enhance the smart costume. —R. M.

Boy Friend

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 17½ years of age. Sometime ago I met a young man and we fell in love with each other. I would like very much to bring this boy to my home and have him meet the family, but my dad doesn't understand why I should have a boy friend. Perhaps he thinks I'll marry, but I just want this boy to meet the folks, as I've met his. What do you suggest we do to make Dad understand? L. C.

As you know, if you follow the column, I always suggest parents should let their daughters' boy friends come to the house, so they may get a line on them. The only thing to do is talk it out with your father in reasonable fashion and say you've met the boy friend's family, and would like him to meet yours.

At-Home Cold Wave Set

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

IF THE HEAT is in your hair . . . and your locks are beginning to fall limp with wilting . . . there's a simple enough permanent to give yourself in the coolness of your own home . . . and a cold wave "perm" at that.

If you thought it couldn't be done . . . let cosmetic science take a bow while you applaud long and loudly . . . and continue on for "info" about the no muss, no fuss way of curling your tresses into natural waves of loveliness.

Especially during hot summer months . . . not only you . . . but your service-gal friend or relative . . . dotes on beauty devices that take little time and effort . . . and with quick and unbelievable efficiency achieve hair beauty. This naturalistic cold wave permanent . . . which you can impart to your hair . . . is as easy as putting up your crowning glory in curlers . . . and takes practically no more time . . . and it leaves the head looking soft, lovely and oh, so chic and charming.

GRAND FOR VACATIONS

Water resistant . . . it would be an ideal beauty aid to take with you on your vacation when beauty parlors and hairdressers are at a premium . . . and when . . . especially when . . . you want to look your prettiest.

The package includes a complete set of cold wave solution, neutralizing lotion, curlers sufficient for any head, tissues . . . and a full set of directions which you'll want to adhere to strictly for the best results.

Three important steps must be followed . . . and will you be pleasantly surprised when your locks fall in waves and curls . . . and you no longer have that straight-as-a-poker head of hair. First shampoo the hair, part into sections . . . and wind firmly. Relax awhile and then remove the curlers . . . and those easy-to-manage curls will thrill you.

Send a package to your favorite service girl who is as feminine as her civilian sister . . . and who, too, is wise in the ways of beauty. It's very moderately priced, too.

For the name of this at-home cold wave permanent set, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOUR HAIR is a bother these hot days . . . wilting into straight-as-a-poker unattractiveness . . . and if time is precious and unsparable . . . there is a cold-wave permanent set which you can use at home . . . for charming and natural curls and waves . . . a whole ocean of them . . . although you might be seashoring daily. Universal Starlet Vivian Austin has an enviable head of curly-locks.

Shopping With Children

"Hands off" should be the rule taught, and in no uncertain way, by every mother who takes a child shopping or marketing. The child may be a darling to her, but it will be a pest and an ordeal to those who wait on her if she allows her child to handle or disarrange merchandise.—MRS. BEECKMAN.

Jacket That's Also a Cape

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A JACKET that is also a cape is a new kind of summer wrap invented by Fira Benenson to pair with slim town dresses.

What it looks like can be seen in Miss Dulin's sketch. This cape-jacket, and the dress, are made of black silk crepe. The wrap is bolero length, and has sleeves with armholes the length of the jacket body, and with shirring at the top of the shoulder. This deep armhole makes it very nice to wear in hot weather, and nice and graceful to look at, too.

The dress that goes with the jacket is also trimmed with hand shirring, which gives softness on the bosom and below the waistline at the front of the slim skirt. A toque of yellow chrysanthemums makes a charming hat with this ensemble.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday —The country looks very lovely, but we went so long without rain I am afraid the strawberries in our vicinity will have a poor crop this year. Everything looks nice in the garden, however, and we have had several showers. Having quite a number of children here over the week-end is keeping us all very busy.

I still find myself thinking of that extraordinary feat performed by our air force when it again bombed Japan. When I read about Superfortresses and new weapons such as the Germans are now using, I find myself expecting every day to hear of some new and horrible discovery for the destruction of human beings. If, however, they hasten the end of the war, I shall rejoice, and then I hope we can turn them all to constructive peacetime uses.

I WENT to Mrs. Herbert E. Saulpaugh's home in upper Red Hook, N. Y. Friday for a meeting of the Germantown and Red Hook Garden Clubs and the Red Hook Historical Society. The rooms were crowded.

Most of the women present had sons, husbands or brothers in the war. One woman said, "I am going home, now that I have heard about the Southwest Pacific, and I will write to my Marine son who is still down in the Solomons."

AS SOON as I got home I went to the station to meet some guests who were coming for the week-end. On the station platform I saw three marines. I asked them if they were back from overseas. One boy, who looked well now, told me he had been on Guadalcanal and had had 22 attacks of malaria.

We talked and he suddenly asked, "have you been to Guadalcanal?" I said, "Yes, I was there last summer." He replied, "I didn't think there had ever been any women there and I used to say I would give a tea party when one arrived."

I told him that Miss Coletta Ryan and I had both been there and that now there was an American Red Cross club there with women in charge.

NEW YORK, June 19—Quite an accident in front of the Broadhurst the other afternoon. A truck knocked down the scaffolding holding up two men who were putting up the "Take a Bow" marquee billboards . . . Hal Block's new song has an intriguing title: "The USA By Day and the RAF By Night" . . . Intimates say Stanton Griffis will draw the post of Ambassador to England if the Republicans win the 1944 Presidential elections . . . Dorothy Lamour and her husband, William Ross Howard, would like to adopt a baby . . . Steve Crane's slave bracelet is a present from Betty Hutton . . . WILL ROGERS' daughter Mary is having her time taken up by a Hollywood fellow named Tommy Cutrer . . . The newest burlesque heroine is a jitterbug stripper called "Pepsi Morgan" . . . Bobby-soxers are now tying bow ties around their noggins . . . Marlene Dietrich may remain in England after her USO tour to do a Noel Coward show . . . Lt. True Davis is long distancing from San Francisco to Choo Choo Johnson in Manhattan . . . Switch on the old story: June Morgan, the very pretty blonde cigarette girl at the 1-2-3, was offered an M-G-M screen test. She turned it down—because she thinks peddling smokes is steadier work!

* * *

BROADWAY IS rooting for the speedy recovery of Louis Sobol's amiable "Queen" . . . The first step in Gene Krupa's reorganization of a new band was a raid of Boyd Raeburn's crew. The drummer has grabbed three or four of Raeburn's musicians already . . . Comedians-are-so-hard-to-get-item: The Copacabana is even paying Jackie Gleason's cab fare over from "Follow the Girls" every night! . . . Newscaster John B. Kennedy has beaten off an attack of strep throat . . . If Humphrey Bogart is unsuccessful in straightening out his difficulties with Warner Brothers by fall, he'll try to buy up his contract . . . "Sugar" Geise, the California beauty, will waltz down the aisle with a Los Angeles narcotic squad detective . . . Mary Kirk Brown and Jerri Blanchard aren't talking, after their battle of words (while the show was on), at the 18 Club . . . Uncle Sam will soon ask a number of German-speaking Hollywood stars—Hedy Lamarr, Marlene Dietrich, Paul Henreid, Paul Lukas, and Albert Dekker, among others to make orientation movies for AMG use when Germany is occupied by the Allies.

* * *

THE HOBO NEWS is so chic. Uses pink stationery . . . Frank Stacey, editor of the swing mag, Downbeat, is in St. Vincent's Hospital battling pneumonia . . . The Georgia Hamiltons (he's the Waldorf ork leader) have Reno in the bean-o . . . A war hero on a bond tour with Vic Mature assigned himself to slug all the nuisances Vic couldn't fight because of Coast Guard regulations.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, June 19—Laraine Day squawked about playing the role of the nurse in the Dr. Kildare pictures. So what happened?

Laraine Day

So she got out of them, and later Cecil B. de Mille borrowed her for "The Story of Dr. Wassell," in which she plays the role of the nurse.

Her real name is Laraine Johnson. She took the "Day" from Elias Day, her dramatic coach.

She got her chance in pictures when a talent scout saw her in the Long Beach Players' Guild production of John Hayden's play, "Lost Horizons." She was signed by Paramount to appear in Westerns with George O'Brien. Her roles didn't consist of much more than waiting for O'Brien to hold her in a love scene, and occasionally she got to say, "They went that way."

After Paramount let her go, she got a job at Metro, after being recommended by Charles MacArthur and Director Robert Leonard. She is no trouble at all on the set.

* * *

SHE HAILS from Roosevelt, Utah, where she made her initial appearance on Oct. 13, 1920. She has a twin brother, Lamar, who is 10 minutes younger than she is. Unusual names run in the family. She has brothers and sisters named Etheride, Nila, Noval, Therma, De Armon. She is a Mormon.

She doesn't drink or smoke and still abides by a number of Mormon traditions, but not as to their ancient marriage laws.

She is married to Ray Hendricks, a civilian flying instructor who is stationed at Lancaster, Cal. He was a singer. They met at an arranged dinner. During their courting season he was flying at Phoenix, Arizona. He would hitch hike into Hollywood every week-end to see her. That convinced her, and they were married. His pet name for her is Daisy. She calls him Rayme.

* * *

SHE TAKES herself and her work seriously. She is always taking lessons. She is now taking tap dancing lessons because she hopes some day to do a musical on the screen. She writes, directs and produces her own little shows at a small theater. The public could buy tickets for several of her productions.

* * *

Laraine is a good cook, and is famed among her friends for her steak sauce and special Roquefort cheese salad dressing. She is a great salad fan and is of the opinion that no salad is complete without garlic.

She is very particular about clothes and likes to be well-dressed. She designs her own clothes, and then has a dressmaker do them for her. She is a thrifty person.

George Holland

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: When the Ballet Russe made it first Boston appearance, back in 1935, it had not yet built up the prestige which made it the "smart" thing to see . . . Yet Boston society, believing the authoritative grapevine which exists between the more alert, or "hep," members of the top-drawer sets in European and eastern United States capitals, attended the Ballet in profitable numbers . . . Society wasn't too far wrong . . . One 16-year-old ballet dancer, by name of Toumanova, merited the $4.40 top which the Ballet charged in depressed "times" . . . She danced like a divinity, and was gorgeous . . . She had no facility then with the English language and the Ballet's entrepreneur discouraged interviews with eager reporters.

* * *

NINE YEARS HAVE MADE a profound difference . . . Toumanova returned to Boston for the week-end, in the charge of no less sage a press relations counsel than the redoubtable Terry Turner . . . Terry was the exploitive genius behind the "Behind the Rising Sun" and "Hitler's Children" campaigns in Boston, two epics of their kind . . . (The production cost of both fillums was regained right here in New England after Mr. Turner had taken his customary trouble to let the public know of their worth.)

* * *

THIS NEW AMERICANIZED Toumanova is a more mature personality than the charming, shy 16-year-old toe-dancer whom few newspaper reporters were permitted to talk with in the first years of American tours by the Ballet Russe . . . Her youthful maturity retains an eager quality, but Hollywood—as usual—has done wonders with her, from the standpoint of glamour and appearance . . . Toumanova's first picture is about to be released . . . It is "Days of Glory," (and no epic) . . . But Gregory Peck is appearing with Toumanova, and he is the most important potential male star in Hollywood at this writing . . . Note: Barring Walter Hodiak (of "Lifeboat") possibly.

* * *

TOUMANOVA ADHERES "to the script" in talking with interviewers . . . Yes, America is wonderful and so is New York and so are American men, and politics are for bigger brains than hers . . . But she gives the accepted answers in a cute way, with an attractive accent . . . But Mr. Turner, her Boswell for the time being, told about Toumanova in his most succinct style . . . "The dame," said he, "is tops . . . She is the first star in years who I've been able to let loose in on one of these press clambakes without hovering at her side . . . You know, precautionary . . . Didn't she give the right answers? . . . Sure, she did . . . But that's modesty, more than caution . . . She can really act . . . She could star in a new Moscow Art Theater . . . Just advise your clients to see the first Toumanova picture . . . They'll be seeing her soon in epics" . . . One doesn't quote, the word "epics" when Mr. Turner talks about them . . . When a star reaches Terry Turner "epic" rating, she's home free on a splendid career . . . And Mr. Turner, who used to be one himself, never tells a lie to a newspaperman . . . And his judgement is pretty good.

* * *

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: (Exclusive): Prince Otto of the Hapsburgs will summer at Royalston, the Berkshires . . . Booked also far a stay at the Berkshires is lovely Mary Jane Hall, the Seattle and San Antonio post-debutante whose photograph "made" so many rotogravure sections the past winter as the most "rushed American girl of the Mexico City season . . . Miss Hall and the prince are friends—and that, definitely, is all . . . Also heading for the Berkshires is Alexander Gracida, a Mexican 4-goal polo player at 19 . . . Senor Gracaida is a protege of Pres. Avila Camacho. He's now seeing Boston.

Lou Finney to Give New Power to Sox

By JACK CONWAY

THE RETURN OF Lou Finney to the ranks of the Red Sox is merely a forerunner of what is going to happen in baseball. With the draft pressure lifted and thousands of persons being discharged from the armed forces for physical defects, baseball will be getting new strength. The draft board doctors are also rejecting players who would have been given a rifle and hurried to a combat area in the early days of the war.

Unless there should be exceptionally heavy casualties it is unlikely that any new pressure will be placed upon baseball. The game is certain to carry through 1944 with most of the clubs making money.

Lou Finney

Week end, holiday and night baseball have saved the national pastime. Salaries are much below those of pre-war days and as a result it is not necessary for clubs to draw as much money at the gate to end up with a profit.

Finney will be an important factor in the Red Sox machine. He can play first base and the outfield equally well.

Joe Cronin will welcome the return of Finney for two reasons. First Lou will be a handy man to have around at all times, and then he will also give Joe a chance to sit on the bench when he wishes to rest his aching feet.

It has at times been a great physical effort for Cronin to play first base. Joe has accepted this chore as something that had to be done. While Cronin's hitting has been effective, his fielding and base running have been much below par. Finney will be able to bolster the Sox at first base, while Cronin can be held in reserve as a pinch hitter and in case it should be necessary to send Lou to the outfield.

If Germany should collapse before next spring, many big league ball players will be released from service. Uncle Sam will not need such a large armed force if he only has the Japs as opponents.

Ring at First Base

MATCHMAKER EDDIE Mack and Jack O'Brien have decided to place the ring at first base at National League Park for the 10-round bout between Manuel Ortiz and Larry Bolvin a week from Thursday night. This will give the grandstand crowd a perfect view of the action as it will not be necessary to sell any of the seats behind the screen. Occupants of the first base pavilion will also be able to get a close-up of the action. There will also be a limited number of choice seats on the playing field.

Ortiz has started heavy training at Harry Kelley's Gym while Bolvin is at a training camp outside of Providence. The rival boxers will be in the best possible condition when they enter the ring.

It will be strictly a battle of punchers. Bolvin and Ortiz have skyrocketed to the front in the boxing game as a result of their ability to hit. Ortiz throws punches faster than any bantamweight champion since the days of Pete Herman, while Bolvin does efective walloping with his right.

With the winner promised a bout with Willie Pep, world's featherweight champion, there should be few idle moments once the gong sounds for the opening of the first round.

No Objections

TOMMY FARMER is unlike the average run of managers of champions who have come to Boston. He is not trying to hand pick the officials for the Ortiz-Bolvin bout. He will not ask the commission to ban any officials, while he will not request that special men be assigned for the bout.

"I feel," said Farmer, "that all of the officials of the commission are competent. Otherwise they would not have been appointed to their present posts.

"Ortiz has never tried to get edges in the matter of the officials to be named for a title bout. All he asks is a fair deal and I know he will get it. The Mexican's fists of iron, rather than any vote, will decide the winner."

Sox Stay Near A. L. Peak

While the Red Sox are flirting around the top in the American League the hapless Braves have run into a streak of misfortune that does not augur any too well for the team's immediate future.

Although the Braves enjoy a two-point percentage lead over the Phils and two full games over the last place Cubs, the locals will have to snap out of it this week when they entertain the Phils for four days.

Beginning with a twilight game at 6 tomorrow night against the Phils, the Braves play three in a row with the Fitzsimmons crew. Then for the week-end menu the Braves hop over to New York for Saturday and Sunday games with the Giants.

Yesterday's double defeat at the hands of the Giants may be ascribed only to poor and inefficient mound work. The team continues to hit lightly, but this condition should be somewhat improved with intensive batting practise at home.

Meanwhile the Red Sox have New England all agog over their thrust at first place. A meagre half-game separates the Cronin-men from the leading St. Louis Browns. If Lady Lucy had smiled on the Sox in yesterday's fifth of the nightcap the Cronin-men today might be sharing the lead with the Browns.

Imagine Jim Tobin opening the inning with a triple and dieing on third. Hal Wagner, the next batter, popped a close-in fly for the first out. Skeeter Newsome lined out to Third Baseman Torres and Pinch-hitter Joe Bowman flied out to Ritz in right.

Although Manager Cronin and his men are disappointed at their failure to reach the peak over the week-end they have an excellent chance to attain this goal within the next few days.

The Sox will be playing the so-so Athletics in single games at Philadelphia tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday while the St. Louis Browns tangle with the tough Chicago White Sox.

The Red Sox return home for Fenway Park games with Washington Friday and Saturday. The Senators have been feeding so many knuckle-ball pitchers to the Sox that the latter are reaching them, as evidenced yesterday when they pounced on Dutch Leonard and Roger Wolff in the first game which they won 9 to 6.

Lt. Art Ross, Jr., Missing in Action

Lt. Art Ross, Jr., member of the Canadian Royal Air Force, is reported as missing in action over France on June 11. Members of his squadron declare Ross was able to bail out, and as a result there is a possibility he is a prisoner of war.

Lt. Ross is a son of Art Ross, manager of the Boston Bruins hockey team. Lt. Ross has been in England since December, 1942, and has participated in numerous raids.

Lt. Ross' wife is Loretta Rabbitte, formerly of Hanover. Mrs. Ross is hopeful that her flyer husband is safe somewhere in Europe.

Lt. Ross' brother, John, is a flyer, and is taking part in the Burma road operations with a squadron of Canadians.

$1,700,000 Meet Opens in Chicago

CHICAGO, June 19 (AP)—Dangling a record lure of $1,700,000 in stakes and purses, one of turfdom's most illustrious meetings—the co-ordinated Arlington-Washington Park horse racing program—opened a 70-day stand at Washington Park today.

Pitting the nation's leading stables, the lush meeting will present 24 stakes, none valued at less than $10,000 in added money and five flaunting purses of $50,000.

The gallopers of Warren Wright's Calumet Farms, topped by Pensive, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, comprise the most sizeable and formidable string here for the 70-day stretch. With $298,135 already piled up in winnings this season, Calumet Farm will be gunning for its own 1941 cash collection record of $475,316.

Other headliners include Louis B. Mayer's handicap ace, Thumbs Up; Rounders, winner of last year's Stars and Stripes Handicap, owned by William Helis, who also is bringing Pericles, the now 2-year-old colt which cost Helis $66,000 last year, and Occupy and Occupation of John Marsch's stable.

The estimated $85,000 Arlington Classic on July 22 will be the first important stakes quest for three of the high-calibre Wright contenders—Pensive, Twilight Tear and Miss Keeneland.

The meeting's top attractions:

July 1—Estimated Arlington-Lassie stakes.	$45,000
July 4—$50,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap.
July 15—Estimated Arlington futurity.	$70,000
July 22—Estimated Arlington classic.	$85,000

Heads-Up Baseball Gave Newton Title

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Newton High is the newly crowned State baseball champion and now the schoolboy season of '43-'44 is a thing of the past.

The Garden City won the crown last Saturday by taking the measure of Holyoke High, 5-2, in the State final conducted by the Interscholastic Writers' Association at Fenway Park in what was easily the best game of the entire tourney.

Holyoke won the right to come to the Hub for the final by virtue of sweeping the western tournament. Up until Saturday it had a clean slate with 12 victories and one tie, that deadlock coming in the playoffs for a sectional title.

Rumor had it that the invader was highly over-rated and wasn't in it with Springfield Cathedral and other teams in that area and only the luck of the draw kept the Paper City team in the running. But Holyoke was anything but over-rated Saturday. The team probably depended entirely too much on its great captain, Joe Soskovic, and his battery mate, Frank McMahon. But it was loose playing by the infield, great base running by Johnny Recco of Newton and three snappy double plays by the new champion that brought about Holyoke's downfall.

The double plays, a rarity in schoolboy ball, came at opportune times for the Newtons. The first came in the opening frame, after Holyoke had scored, and ended any further threat for that inning. The next came in the seventh with none out and the bases loaded. Newton was leading at the time by three runs and it looked as though that slim margin would go out the window, especially with Soskovic coming up in the inning.

RECCO RAN WILD

But "Moose" McManus settled down and forced the next batter to tap back to him; he threw to Roberts for a force at the plate and Roberts heaved to Recco to complete the killing.

Loose fielding and Recco's great running were linked together on the same play to open the sixth. Recco beat out a bunt and went to second on a sacrifice. Then Wes Hayes rolled one to the shortstop and in his haste to make the play threw wide and pulled the first sacker off the bag and Recco scored while Kane and Kennedy kicked the ball around the infield.

Recco was outstanding throughout the tourney, Soskovic lived up to every expectation, but the star of the whole affair was Joe "Moose" McManus who stepped in at a very bad spot and came through like a champion for his third victory in the tournament.

Arsenal Bears To Be Watched

The Park League standings have been a hectic jumble from the very first week of competition with one team on top and then another and before this week is over the standings are very apt to change again.

At the minute the Casey Club occupies first place with the Navy Yard only one game off the pace and after tonight's games the reverse of that order wouldn't be surprising.

The Dorchester club runs into the up and coming Linehans that have been going places since picking up Catcher Frank Morely and the Charlestown shipbuilders tackle the Trailways, one of the circuit's weaker members. A loss for Caseys and a victory for the Navy would bring about the anticipated change.

Right now the team to watch is the Watertown Arsenal which is in third place and closing in fast on the first two.

The Watertown team has been going along on a two-man pitching staff, Will Jackman and Lou Strecker, and has done very well. Now the gun-makers have added two new flingers, George Amos of the now defunct Wolverines, and Chuck Edgerly, who won his only Park League start. With these two the Arsenal is as strong as either the Caseys or the Navy Yard in the hurling department and will be very dangerous from here in.

LUKE HAMLIN and JOE RULLO, Athletics—Hamlin blanked Yankees with four hits; Rullo had perfect day with three hits and three walks in four at bats.

WALLY MOSES and LEROY SCHALK, White Sox—Moses hit homer in 10th inning to win opener, 3-2, over Indians; Schalk singled in Moses, who had tripled in ninth to win second, 6-5.

BOBBY DOERR, Red Sox, and JOHNNY SULLIVAN, Senators—Doerr homered and scored twice to help defeat Senators, 9-8, in opener; Sullivan singled in Fermin Guerra to score only run as Nats defeated Red Sox, 1-0, in nightcap.

HAL NEWHOUSER and RUDY YORK, Tigers—Newhouser won 10th game in opener; Rudy York's homer in ninth gave Tigers clean sweep of twin bill over Browns.

FRANK SEWARD and CLIFF MELTON, Giants—Seward relieved Rube Fischer in second inning and hurled one-run ball rest of way to gain decision; Melton made first start since May 19 and won second game, 7-1.

BOBBY BRAGAN, Dodgers and RON NORTHEY, Phillies—Bragan made three hits and drove in two runs to help Dodgers win first; Northey batted in three runs in nightcap with double and single to gain Phillies even split.

STAN MUSIAL, Cardinals, and FRITZ OSTERMUELLER, Pirates—Musial hit double and two triples, drove in four runs to lead St. Louis to 12-2 first game win; Ostermueller snapped Cards seven-game winning streak in second, 3-1.

FRANK McCORMICK, Reds, and BILL NICHOLSON, Cubs—McCormick drove in three runs with three hits to lead Reds to 5-2 win in opener; Nicholson hit two homers in nightcap, his second coming in ninth inning to give Cubs 6-6 tie.

Senators Have Still Another Knuckler

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19—When and if Harold Cliff reports, Ossie Bluege will try a new maneuver, with Gil Torres, Cuban Jack-of-all-positions, who has been doing a clever job of playing third base thus far. Because of the crying need for a relief pitcher with control, Bluege will return Torres to his first love—pitching. The slender Cuban won 19 games with the second-division Chattanooga club last season, and boasts a screwball and knuckler.

Six Games Separate First and Last Teams

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League pennant race is hotter than the weather. The League-leading St. Louis Browns dropped two games to the Detroit Tigers, 7-3 and 7-5, and the last-placeplace Philadelphia Athletics won a double-header from the New York Yankees, 4-0 and 8-6, to tighten the standings considerably. Only six games separate the first and last place teams.

Hal Newhouser became the first pitcher to win 10 games in the American League and joined Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds, in limiting the Browns in the opener. Chuck Hostetler led the Tiger attack with four hits. A home run by Rudy York in the ninth inning of the nightcap with one on gave the Tigers a clean sweep of the twin bill. Dizzy Trout, in relief, won his eighth game.

The Athletics' double win over the Yankees was the second straight Sunday double defeat for the World Champions. Luke Hamlin held them in check with four hits, as Frank Hayes hit his eighth homer to lead his club to a 4-0 victory in the opener. Joe Rullo paced the A's in the second with a perfect average, three hits and three runs in three times at bat.

The Chicago White Sox swept both ends of a double-header from Cleveland, winning the opener in the 10th inning 3-2, and the second in the ninth, 7-6. Wally Moses' homer was the deciding tally in the first, and Moses' triple and Leroy Schalk's triple won the second game.

Mort Cooper won his sixth of the year and Fred Ostermueller won his second game in Pirate uniform without a defeat. St. Louis and Pittsburgh split in their twin bill. The Pirate victory in the nightcap snapped a Cardinal seven-game winning streak.
